

SEC09-J Never leak the results of certain standard API methods from trusted code to untrusted code

 This proposed additional recommendation/rule is under construction and incomplete.

The "certain standard API methods" are the ones to be listed in the new SEC03-J. Note that the leaking issue is transitive, and so requires escape analysis for general static proof.